THE BOXERS ARE ACTIVE

Indian Imperial Troops Sent Against Them Fare Badly.

FRENCH AND GERMAN TROOPS

Concentrating at Pao-ting-fu for a Forward Movement---Forces Combined Will Number 15,000.

Tientsing April 21—Brig Gen A J Parsons commanding the Third brigade of the Indian Imperial service troops in China, who is now at Shanhaikwan, reports that a company of Punjab infantry to-day shot a band of robbers in the act of burning a village.

A force of Boxers and robbers recently attacked the Indian troops at Ho Tsun killing Major Blunt and burning and plundering another. The company was treated to a hot fire. Reinforcements have been sent from Shanhaikwan. The Indians are armed with modern rifles.

Pao-ting-fu, Saturday, April 20—The city has been for the last four days a hive of military preparations. French and German soldiers are on the way to the city. It is now certain that 5000 French troops and 6000 Germans will form the entire force when all the reinforcements have arrived.

There is much confusion in current reports regarding the fighting between the outposts of the allies and the Chinese.

The French left yesterday under an escort of cavalry. Emperor Kwang Su has ordered Tung Fu to retire immediately to the province of Shansi. Prince Ching, the Chinese official, says the Chinese general has already retired to their confines and considers the situation very unremarkable.

The French and German troops seem to be operating fairly well although yesterday (Friday) there was some disorder on the outlying position. This question has been settled by an agreement under which the allied commanders are to act independently and yet at the same time cooperate.

If the Chinese retire over the Shansi boundary, then according to international agreement the foreign troops should not go beyond it. Prince Ching, ministers of the foreign office, Prince Tuan and others have assured the ministers that this will prove to be the case. The Chinese point out that they have not been able to disband the Boxers, who have taken refuge in the mountains, but they have dispersed a few miles over the border, arguing that it is right for them to be allowed to follow them wherever they may be.

RUSSIA DENIES

St Petersburg April 21—The statement that Russia has given a pledge to the entente regarding the far east and offered to reduce her forces from 100,000 to 10,000 pounds of tea. But that China signs the Manchurian convention and Russia has concerns herself in connection with the Siberian railways are declared to be unfounded.

On the contrary Russia is determined, it is asserted on high authority, to treat the present circumstances.

ANOTHER MULE INCIDENT

London April 22—The Viceroy of Nan King says the Shang hai correspondent of the Morning Post evidently distrusting the professed object of the Franco German expedition refuses to permit further sales of mules to the British except on condition that they are not to find a foe for the prospective expedition to Sian fu.

CHINESE ARMY

Shang hai April 21—Native reports say that General Ho is Tso Tsai commanding in the province of Yun nan will 6000 infantry and 2000 cavalry. Yu Lan and Ho Ping have passed through Cheng tu lately bound for Hsian.

WILL SUPPRESS CHINESE FEMALE SLAVE TRAFFIC

San Francisco, April 21—The Chinese quarter of this city is very much perturbed at an effort by the federal authorities to suppress the traffic in female Chinese slaves. United States Marshal Shine, with a squad of assistants, made a sudden descent on the place and arrested thirty four terrified and shrieking women. Sixteen who produced certificates were released. The remaining eighteen were held as slaves. It is estimated that at least eighty inmates of the houses of Waverley place and Sullivan alley escaped through back ways and over roofs. The raid was the immediate result of an order by Attorney General Griggs to the district attorney directing him to do all in his power to suppress the traffic in female Chinese slaves.

The women prisoners will be taken before the federal courts to determine whether they have a legal right to remain in this country and if they are held in bondage as the chattels of masters. The power of the authorities will stop at this point but the officials are confident that the deportation of a number of slave girls will dampen the ardor of the slave dealers and especially destroy the traffic.

THE PHILIPPINE TARIFF AWAITS COURT DECISION

Washington April 21—It is not likely that the new Philippine tariff will be promulgated until after the decision of the supreme court in the insular cases. It is stated at the war department where the matter has received careful consideration that the decision may make it unnecessary for the government to establish a system of tariffs in the Philippines although the work of equalizing the rates and receiving and considering suggestions as to the coming decision would not make any change in the present conditions. Some months ago the war department published the tariff as prepared by the tariff experts in the Philippines and approved by the Taft commission. Interested parties especially manufacturers and shippers were invited to examine this proposed tariff and make suggestions and criticisms. It is interesting to note that of 419 paragraphs in the proposed tariff only 14 paragraphs have provoked criticism or excess. Even these are in a still and nearly all take the form of a question. Some of the more important suggestions are embodied in the following.

It is suggested that there will be difficulty in making all duties specific and that in many cases perhaps ad valorem duties will be better. There are no objections to the metric system as American goods are in yards and European goods are in meters.

If the yard folds are continued it would be better for the American manufacturers.

The Manila chamber of commerce asks that four months intervene between the promulgation of the tariff and its enforcement. No provision is made for marking oleomargarine to distinguish it from butter. The dairy interests think such a provision desirable. A lower rate is asked for gasoline to be used for fuel and for launches. An ad valorem duty is advised upon precious stones and watches. One firm suggests that copperas and oxide should be upon the free list.

It is claimed that cotton yarn should not be admitted at a lower rate than fabrics woven from such yarn also that the weight and washing of cotton tissues should be changed in the interest of coarser cotton fabrics. There has been quite an extensive discussion of this subject and it has been pointed out that changes in the Cuban tariff also were needed in this particular.

The free entry of news print paper is advocated.

Reductions are asked of from 20 to 40 per cent on harness and saddle makers wares. It is suggested that cheap and expensive machinery should pay the same rates. Certain typewriter firms want the duty on their machines reduced.

A change is asked in the classification of meat products. It is said that the duty on alcohol should be doubled or manufacturers of whisky will be able to use the alcohol for making whisky at a much less cost than the distillers product.

California manufacturers ask reduction on flour cereals prunes benzine gasoline and petroleum some of them suggesting that these articles be placed on the free list. Condensed milk and fish of the Pacific coast fisheries also should be placed on the free list.

One suggestion made is that all materials for the United States forces should be admitted free. Some rather interesting information has reached the war department in connection with the tariff it being shown that Russia sends to the Philippines the coffee of the people imported by the people of the islands.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC AND SANTA FE AGREEMENT

San Francisco April 21—The Chronicle says

The Southern Pacific and Santa Fe have perfected an agreement whereby they will divide between them a large volume of passenger traffic to and from California that would otherwise prove a bone of contention and occasion spirited competition between the trans continental lines and a possible demoralization of rates. The agreement was made at a conference at Del Monte between traffic and passenger officials of the roads after the adjournment of the trans continental passenger association. The agreement embraces among other things a division of the transportation of marines and sailors during the year ending June 30 1901. It is estimated that many thousands of the marines and recruits will be moved between the Atlantic coast and the Philippines during the year. The rate it is announced will be the full tariff rate less the land grant deduction. The Santa Fe has the largest land grant of any of the trans continental lines. The land grant portion is the road extending from Atchison to the Kansas Colorado state line and from Isleta near Albuquerque to Mojave. Government business over this portion of the road has to be carried at 50 per cent of the tariff rate. The Santa Fe is thus forced to offer a rate considerably below the tariff and it is agreed that this shall be offered in the bids asked for by the navy department.

The passenger officials are still considering many matters regarding the general interchange of traffic between the two companies among the most important of which is the issuing of interchangeable mileage tickets.

HIGH WATER IS RECEDING

Pittsburg and Allegheny Emerging From the Murky Flood.

VERY HEAVY FINANCIAL LOSS

Estimated at Nearly Three Million Dollars in That District Alone---Scenes of Misery.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 21—The most rapid spread and destructive storm from a material point of view has passed. It has left a zone of ruin 200 miles in diameter. It was unusual in that it passed simultaneously different parts of cities 400 miles from Pittsburg were tied up by one of the worst snow storms ever known. While the snow fall was from 18 inches to three feet deep which is not extraordinary, the snow was so wet that it clung to trees, shade and fruit trees and electric wires, paralyzing steam and street railways, blockading and stopping all traffic and making pedestrianism a most impossible. The fall was so heavy and spasmodic in some places that the clouds declare it seemed like the bursting of a snow cloud.

At Leadville, Colo., the snow was so heavy that it was municipalities in speedily expected to relief as early as April 1.

The run off faster than the snow can melt yet here traffic was practically suspended. Water overflowed and washed out railroad tracks and hillsides came down and buried the rails. In addition nearly every telegraph in Ohio river between Pittsburg and Wheeling is in darkness tonight. Electric light plants and their wires are damaged and the gas in the mains is generally turned off to prevent explosion. Six hundred million or more people to light streets and houses about in the dark.

A remarkable feature of the storm is that all two fatalities directly attributable to this case have been reported. Yet a rose through in a [illegible] only one known so far. There may be others but as communication is cut off from many populous places it will be the end of the week before the total can be footed up.

The money loss is just as difficult to foot up. It may reach $20,000,000. The railroads think they have lost $1,000,000. The loss of wages to the army of workers in manufacturing plants up and down the rivers will count up to $500,000 and the repairs to plants will be a large sum. The damage to storage stocks, goods, merchandise in Pittsburg, Allegheny and towns and cities down the Ohio will probably reach $2,000,000.

The telegraph companies have suffered severely but cannot yet compute their losses.

In addition there is the enormous indirect damage caused by the almost complete suspension of trade. What that amounts to no one can determine exactly and estimates simply reflect the conservative or radical character of the computer.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 21—Pittsburg and Allegheny are slowly emerging from the murky flood. At 8 o'clock tonight the rivers were receding nearly a foot an hour. The highest point reached at Davis island dam was 25.8 feet at 3 o'clock this morning which means 35 feet at the junction of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers. The water remained stationary until about 3 p m when it began to fall. Conservative estimates of the total damage in this district is between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

Fifty thousand workers are suffering from enforced idleness.

While there has been greater floods at this point there was never one that caused so much financial loss and discomfort. This is due to the closer population caused by the recent rapid growth of the two cities and the fact that all the manufacturing plants on the rivers were built or rebuilt since the great flood of 1889, when they were swept away by the first and highest water ever known.

The loss to the railroads entering Pittsburg from snow and slides will be quite heavy. Heavy snow and intense cold with traffic is roughly estimated at $1,000,000.

On the Fort Wayne the worst trouble was a blockade between Sale and Washington. This began Saturday morning and tied up the road for twenty four hours. At 9 o'clock this morning the track was cleared and trains began moving. The same trouble kept the Cleveland tracks of the Lake Erie and Lake Erie Five trains were [illegible] Leavittsburg for twenty five hours. This snow fall did not extend east of Newcastle but at Youngstown it was two feet deep and the drifting snow in the north part of that city was up to locomotive headlights.

Water was two feet deep on Lake Erie tracks at Nay Mill Run but trains got through. Big landslides occurred on the Pittsburg and Lake Erie, Baltimore and Ohio at Sebo on the Panhandle on the south side, the Bessemer at several points and the Allegheny Valley near Franklin, Pa. The slide at Sebo was 150 feet long and it required four engines and a crew to clear the track. Through freight bound east were loaded at Third street passenger depot being transferred to other cars.

At Sebo between Monongahela and Allegheny the Lake Erie received its most serious setback. One hundred feet of the east bound track was carried into the river with the steep bank, the whole face of the bank slipping down into the river. On the lines of the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio to Wheeling great damage is reported and both lines were tied up for several hours. Five miles of the Pittsburg, Lessenger and Lake Erie tracks were either under water or mud. The bank was continually sliding down onto the tracks and a large force of men could not keep them clear.

The damage to telegraph poles and lines along the roads was enormous and it will take several days to fully repair them. Trains are now running on all roads but no attention is paid to keeping up to schedules.

The submerged districts in Pittsburg and Allegheny are today a scene of abject misery. Cellars and in some instances the first floors of stores and dwellings are covered with water. Where the flood has subsided it has left behind a greasy yellow scum two to three inches deep. The residents spent all day trying to restore their homes to some degree of decency and comfort. The damage to furniture and buildings in Allegheny is estimated at about $100,000. It will take two months of hot summer weather to thoroughly dry out these houses. In Pittsburg the loss to residences and stores and goods and the cost of cleaning up will amount to about $250,000. At Carnegie boro about six miles from Pittsburg the loss is estimated at $40,000, of which the Columbia bridge works loses $[illegible]. The other losses range from $5 to $[illegible].

OHIO RIVER CONTINUES RISING AT CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 21—There has been more alarm throughout the Ohio valley today on account of floods than at any period since February 1884 when the Ohio river reached its highest stage of 71 feet and 9 inches at this city. Most of the inhabitants of the valley spent the night in anticipation of the worst flood ever known. In the valley as they will not know until tomorrow that the water has begun falling at Pittsburg. Until this news reached river men tonight it was feared that the record of 1884 might be broken but now it is generally believed that the river will not exceed the floods of February 1884 and of March 1898 when it reached 61 feet at Cincinnati.

The present flood is the worst that has ever been known so late in the spring. The first crest in April 1884 the river reached 55 feet and 9 inches in this city and that was the highest water ever known so late in the spring. There has been no flood in the Ohio valley since March 1898. The flood will do much more damage now than it would have done one or two months ago.

While the water has begun to fall at Pittsburg both rain and snow have been falling heavily last night and today and tonight all along the Ohio valley. The danger line has already been reached at points above Cincinnati and it will be reached here tomorrow morning. The merchants and manufacturers in the lower part of the city have been working all day and night preparing for the worst.

Early this evening the weather bureau announced heavy snows and rains along the Ohio valley. The uniform rise during the day was four tenths of a foot per hour but the average is higher tonight. The weather bureau announced that the danger line had been reached at all upper gauge stations tonight and it would be reached in Cincinnati tomorrow noon. The stage was 44 feet and seven tenths at 7 o'clock here tonight and the danger line is 50 feet. At Point Pleasant the stage is eight feet above the danger line tonight with the river still rising and a heavy rain. The mayor of Portsmouth, Ohio, telegraphed that the danger line had been reached there and that a heavy snow was falling tonight.

Similar reports have been received from all over southern Ohio and as far north as Springfield. Some trains that were due last night from the east have not yet arrived. It is generally conceded that the fruit crop throughout the Ohio valley is gone and the damage to crops is very great.

DAMAGE IN NORTHERN OHIO WAS VERY GREAT

Cleveland, O., April 21—The fierce storm that swept over this city and northern Ohio throughout yesterday and last night gradually subsided today. It was followed tonight by a dense fog. Notwithstanding the heroic efforts of the telegraph and telephone companies to repair their prostrated lines there has been little improvement to the service this afternoon. Throughout the day big gangs of men have been at work on the various lines replacing poles and stringing wires. Trains on practically all roads entering the city continue to arrive from one to three hours behind schedule time. This is especially true in regard to the lines of the east. The fact that there are no wires to facilitate the movement of trains is responsible to a large extent for the delay to traffic.

The traffic on the city street car lines continued to be badly crippled all day as a result of the deep snow and slush on the tracks. So heavy are the snow and slush in many places that the most powerful sweepers became stalled in it. A large section of the city is still cut off from communication by wire with fire headquarters as a result of the general prostration of wires.

MORTGAGED MANCHURIA

Shanghai April 21—The Russian general staff is drawing up a Manchuria historic of the last [illegible] months of the land [illegible] and poll tax [illegible] of 4,000 taels to the April 1 forming a force of mounted police.

EXAMINATIONS POSTPONED

In addition to filling the regular vacancies in the office for this position also take place one or more of certain optional offices for which due credit will be given.

Particular attention is called to the fact that within a few month it is probable a number of financial agents will be needed. These agents will be selected from this examination and the selections will be confined so far as practicable to those who have shown proficiency in the outlines of study issued by the commission and who have passed the required examination. The salary of the lowest grade of financial agent will be at out $900 per annum.

Troops have been sent from Amur province to the scene of attack.

KOREA WILL BORROW

Loan of 5,000,000 Yen to Build Northern Railroad Will be Secured from France

Yokohoma, April 22—The Korean government. According to advices just received from Seoul the capital of Korea has decided to borrow from France 5,000,000 yen for the purpose of constructing the northern railway from Seoul to Wiku. It is expected that the objection to pledging the Korean customs as security for this loan which created a desire in certain quarters for the dismissal of Mr McLeavy Brown director general of Korean customs.

According to the same advices Admiral Seymour and Sir Claude M. MacDonald British minister to Japan have arrived at Chemulpo Korea on board the British cruiser Powerful and it is expected that they will have an audience with Emperor Yi Hieung.

U. S. SENATOR SCOTT

Wheeling, W. Va., April 21—United States Senator N. B. Scott wires from Washington contributing $100 for relief of the flood sufferers.

BRITAIN'S WAR LOAN

Dissatisfaction Expressed that Half of it Has Already Been Placed

London April 22—Great curiosity is manifested here to see just how half the war loan has been already placed as it was not till the government invitation for subscriptions for the remaining half is to be proved that a portion of the 200,000,000 pounds already placed may have been reserved for the government departments but it is rather believed that financial houses have interested themselves in the flotation. No explanation has been afforded and considering that the final instalment of the loan is payable in December and that the first quarter's interest will be paid July 5 the issue is regarded as cheap and the extraordinary reticence has been excited by the fact that only half the issue has been offered to the public.

This dissatisfaction is voiced by the Daily Chronicle which says:

"The public ought to have been informed by this time to whom the chancellor of the exchequer has allotted 200,000,000 pounds of the issue."

The paper proceeds to comment severely upon the policy of the government, which has led to such a disastrous issue in which the British taxpayer drops the round sum of 3,000,000 pounds in the process of borrowing 60,000,000 pounds.

BRUNKEN FIGHT

Davis, deputy marshal, was shot in the hand, two other white men named unknown were shot and wounded slightly. Ben Cable (negro) was seriously and Tom Smith (negro) was shot and slightly wounded.

Sir Alfred Hickman, who is a member of the council of the Iron and Steel institute, intends to call upon the government to produce adverse reports by the government of India and the Burmah railway officials on American made locomotives supplied to the railroad.

MINISTER WU HAS AN IDEA

Chinese Representative Drafts a Memorial to His Government.

HE URGES CONSERVATISM

But Calls Attention to Progress Made by Japan---Makes Definite Suggestions of Changes.

Washington April 21—The Chinese minister Wu Ting Fang is about to make a move of far reaching importance to the affairs of China and one which cannot it is believed but engage the favorable attention of all the foreign powers interested in the affairs of the Chinese government, based upon his acquaintances with the affairs of the eastern world and pointing out wherein is the opportunity for China to adopt an enlightened and progressive policy which will bring it into harmony with the sisterhood of nations and at the same time will relieve it from the pressing perplexities which are crowding upon it at all hands.

The memorial is a comprehensive document covering 20 heads dealing with administrative economic and financial questions and taking in practically the entire range of government affairs so far as these seem to be in need of opportunity of rehabilitating them on modern and progressive lines. The document is by no means conservative in character and purposely avoids radicalism and extreme reforms which have in effect been tried with previous efforts to bring about a change in the existing order of affairs.

Mr Wu is a loyal and devoted adviser of the country and its institutions and he has not been in sympathy with past efforts for excessive change as in his judgment they went so far as to invite prejudice and opposition not only in imperial and other ruling quarters but also with the masses of the people who are slow to realize the advantage of sweeping changes. In the present instance Mr Wu has chosen a middle ground of conservative improvement which would commend itself both to the Chinese government and to the world at large as calculated to remove the most serious obstacles in the way of progress.

In determining upon this course Mr Wu is acting entirely upon his own initiative and responsibility and without any reference to his status as minister to Washington or suggestion from officials here. Quite apart from his position as minister he continues to have a most lively interest in the welfare of his country. Moreover his long service abroad both in Europe and America his knowledge of the English language and, his keen powers of observation, have afforded him opportunities of observing how far the modern system of the western world could be adapted without shock to the ancient system of China. While he has had the matter in contemplation for some time yet there has been no occasion or opportunity for giving expression to his plans. However now this opportunity has presented itself in the form of a recent imperial edict inviting the high officials of China at home and abroad viceroys governors and ministers abroad to present to the government every facility at their command to aid in overcoming the present disastrous conditions of affairs. The edict points out past evils and holds to severe account those members of the old regime whose conduct has been largely responsible for the distress through which the country has passed. The government therefore asks for every aid which its patriotic citizens can bring to it in overcoming the evils of the past and in establishing a secure basis for the future. Acting upon this edict Mr Wu has prepared his comprehensive memorial to the Chinese government. A memorial of this character it is said is the most important act a Chinese official can take for it is not resorted to except on rare occasions when the gravity of a cause warrants an official to come into immediate communication with the imperial authorities on high matters of state.

Probably the most important feature of the document is its general presentation of the view that the time is now at hand for China to adopt plans of conservative reform. In stating the need at a advantage of this the minister's memorial will point to the lesson Japan has given the world. Up to a few year ago the conditions in China and Japan were almost identical. But by the gradual adoption of modern methods of procedure Japan has brought herself into close communication with the rest of the world and now occupies an enviable position among the other recognized great powers. Minister Wu holds that there is nothing lacking in the resources of

"LOYALTY" AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL

[illegible] Gregg preached on loyalty yesterday morning [illegible] "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life" [illegible]

My theme this morning is loyalty. The word loyalty is not in the Bible but the spirit of loyalty is there [illegible] like [illegible] and extends throughout from Genesis to Revelation. What a [illegible] history shows that the origin of the [illegible] and of the rise [illegible] of the [illegible] and [illegible] walks and will [illegible] thy people shall be my people and thy God my God [illegible] Lord do so to me and more [illegible] though but death part thee and me. David hinted like a partridge [illegible] in his place to kill Saul [illegible] refused to put forth his hand against the Lord's anointed. Jonathan long David last [illegible] belief at the peril of his life. Opening [illegible] in his chamber to arouse [illegible] and pray and give thanks. Note also study [illegible] in his work of rebuilding Jerusalem—such souls as these [illegible] to that [illegible] and invincible [illegible] of the Jesuits. No [illegible] has ever shown the like so long and so many lands. The Jesuits are the [illegible] of God to show the world the power of loyalty in [illegible] Their [illegible] devotion to their faith [illegible] is for [illegible] in [illegible] and [illegible] of [illegible] Hebrew [illegible] Babylon. If I forget thee O Jerusalem let my right [illegible] cleave to the roof of my mouth if I remember thee not if I prefer not Jerusalem above my chief joy.

We all instinctively admire loyalty. If a man has convictions we all like to see him stand by them. Our [illegible] that public [illegible] hood [illegible] the sterling [illegible] of John Adams. Sink or swim live or die survive or perish I give my hand and my heart to this vote. The one act in the heathen world which has always inspired most admiration in true minds is the death of 300 Spartans who guarded the Pass of Thermopylae against the army of Xerxes. It was written above their graves "Stranger go tell at Lacedae on that we died here in obedience to Sparta." They did not choose the pass for themselves but when they were appointed to it they did not desert and the world will not forget their faithfulness. There is nothing better than to be trusty and true. We hear of [illegible] and everywhere the men who can be depended upon. As the centuries pass I am glad to think that human steadfastness does not grow less. At the battle of Gettysburg the One Hundred and Sixth Pennsylvania lost [illegible] per cent in the [illegible] that [illegible] company of the Twenty sixth North Carolina had every officer killed or wounded and every man hit and the orderly sergeant made out the report with a bullet in his leg. But I believe also the answer of the slave in the market place when the prospective purchaser asked him "Will you be faithful if I buy you?" "If you treat me good I will be faithful whether you buy me or not."

We are called to be faithful. We want faithful and true [illegible] to be depended upon. Loyal [illegible]

[illegible] is the criterion of the world. [illegible] to be faithful [illegible] to God. [illegible] faithfulness [illegible] from Jesus. [illegible] The loyalty of Christ came from the love of God. ANOTHER LAND OPENING.

With creation of two more Indian reservations in Oklahoma this summer is promising much stirring news, more so probably than the event deserved. Each succeeding creation of the kind has found Indian lands are always better and more desirable for settlement than the ones by which they are surrounded. In the case of Oklahoma this proposition seems very certain to hold good, this is sufficiently evidenced by the rapid and even astonishing growth of [illegible] since the opening thereof.

The lands to be thrown open to settlement are [illegible] and most of them immediately to the north and west of those that have been so recently opened in Oklahoma, commonly called the Kiowa reservation. It extends from Indian territory on the east to Texas territory on the west, and from the Washita river on the south to Texas on the north. This reservation contains [illegible] acres, an area somewhat larger than Connecticut and about three times as large as Delaware. Besides this large reservation there is a smaller one known as the Wichita reservation, located just north of the river of that name and extending from the Indian territory on the east to the Cheyenne and Arapahoe lands on the west. In this tract there are not quite 75,000 acres. Together the two reservations measure about 114 miles from north to south and 41 miles from east to west.

In regard to the character of this land, Colonel Randlett, the Indian agent, who has entire control of the affairs of the two reservations to be opened, and who knows every foot of the ground, in referring to the nature of the country and the opportunity for the homeseeker said:

"The statement that these lands about to be opened for settlement constitute a vast, fertile area of several million acres cannot be altogether true and should be corrected as far as possible. There are parts of it that are extremely well adapted for settlement, [illegible] that portion known as the Wichita valley, which lies along the Rock Island railroad between Chickasha and Anadarko being as fine farming land as can be found anywhere. It is this fertile section that has given the fine reputation it seems to enjoy, but does not deserve as a whole. There is one-fourth of the reservation, about 70,000 acres lying in the northwest portion, where the soil is very light, porous and sandy. It is covered with sage grass, washes easily and when plowed blows about and drifts. This being the case it of course dries out quickly and the crops soon upon it dry up and burn easily. They have proved a poor success as farm lands, despite the fact that continued effort has been made to create farms here for many years.

"On the land known as the agency farm, which is as good soil as there is in the territory, there have been but four crops in twenty years, and none of them reached thirty bushels to the acre on account of the hot winds and continued drouths which are peculiar to this section. The lands of the reservation generally are better adapted for grazing purposes than for farming. I have reported the facts as I have given them to you in my departmental reports to the government from time to time, and my predecessors in office have done likewise, and it seems strange that the true state of affairs out here should be so generally misunderstood. The opposition of the cattlemen to the opening of the reservation may have led some to believe that the reports were colored to favor their interests, but this is not the case, and even if it had been, there is no occasion for continuing the deception now that the bill to open the lands has become a law. My reason for being so plain spoken about the matter is simply that I do not want the people to be deceived in the character of the country that is attracting them. There is lots of good land on both sides of the river, but the 4,000 Indians now living upon it will get the most of it that is worth having. If the opening were made today there are five men at hand for every desirable claim that would be left."

Valuable or not, the opening of these lands will not be attended by the rush of settlers that made the entrance to Oklahoma so spectacular. The bill in congress that provided for the throwing open of these reservations also gave to the president power to provide some different plan of apportioning the lands than the indiscriminate rush that gave rise to so much quarreling and litigation in Oklahoma. It seems probable, therefore, that there will be some kind of a drawing and an allotment of claims at the land office. The number of probable claimants is several times greater than the number of claims, so that only a fraction of those that participate in the drawing will get lands, and if the quality of them is no better than stated above, it is probable that many of the fortunate ones will be no better off than those less lucky.

The settlement of these Indian lands has an additional interest as a closing scene of a movement that is unequaled in human history. Never before have there been such a distribution of fertile lands among actual settlers as has taken place in the western United States within the past 50 years, and nowhere else does there exist within temperate regions the material in vacant lands for a repetition of it. From the Ohio and the lakes the tide has swept westward until it reached the borders of the arid region. At the present time there is no public land of first-class quality open to settlement, and within a short time under a continuance of the present policy, all the great Indian reservations will have been allotted in severalty or thrown open to white settlement. After that there will remain only the arid lands, the problem of whose cultivation will engage the thoughts of western Americans for many years to come, but which will, as we believe, in the end result in the building up of an agricultural and industrial organization superior to any that is to be found in the rainfall area.

We protest against the extinction of the Taung-Ilyamen. It is one of the few Chinese words we know how to spell. The hardworking newspaper man has some rights that diplomatists ought to respect, and Taung-Ilyamen is one of them.

A CALIFORNIA SUMMER SCHOOL.

As some far in the future, especially, the colleges of California will operate some system to provide means to promote their educational work, [illegible] in the meantime the California universities are doing more [illegible] than any other institutions to place within reach of the people of the state the means to procure their educational work, [illegible] and directed by men of the highest character and most [illegible] ability.

A comprehensive instance of this [illegible] is the summer school of the University of California which is to begin from June 3 to August 10 of the present year.

The summer school open without restriction to all applicants of good character and intelligence will number in its instructing staff thirty-five or more members of the regular faculty, including, among others, Professors Le Conte, Hilgard, Moses, Clark, Barker, Merrill, Margolis, Lomax, Page, Jastrow and Magee and in addition John Dewey, professor of philosophy in the University of Chicago; H. Morse Stephens, professor of modern European and English history at Cornell university; Barrett Wendell, professor of English in Harvard university; James E. Russell, dean of Teachers' college of Columbia university; Liberty Hyde Bailey, professor of horticulture at Cornell; Ewald Flugel, professor of English philology, at Stanford; Ellwood Cubberley, associate professor of education in the same institution, and James H. Wilson, irrigation expert of the United States department of agriculture.

Courses will be offered in philosophy, education, history and political science, Greek, Latin, English, German, French, mathematics, physics, astronomy, chemistry, botany, mineralogy, physical culture, agriculture, horticulture and irrigation. All the facilities of the library, laboratories and museums will be available.

Many of the lectures are planned particularly to meet the needs of teachers, to acquaint them with modern methods and to freshen their inspiration. Particularly valuable are the opportunities for training in personal, [illegible] school and physical culture.

For those desiring to specialize in agriculture, a new department has been established, [illegible] the latest forms and methods of scientific agriculture, through hearing lectures by experts on topics such as irrigation practice, dairying, [illegible] cultivation, [illegible] products, food for men and animals, fruit growing and soils. The agricultural work also may choose also courses in other departments.

In climate Berkeley is the chosen land of the summer session. The breezes of the Pacific temper the days and make excessive heat practically unknown.

A five minutes' walk from the university buildings leads one into a delightful wilderness of rugged hills and shady canons and winding country roads. The region round about is a tempting field for long tramps and bicycle rides. And all this in its out-of-door charm, the university live in a pleasant town of 15,000 people, with ample and comfortable accommodations for students, with electric cars, and with all present-day comforts. San Francisco, with its shops and libraries, theaters, parks, deep-sea shipping, strange sights and historic flavor, is only fifty minutes distant—the fare ten cents.

A circular containing full information will be mailed free upon application to the recorder of the faculties, Berkeley, California. The fee for the session is $10, and the student may choose one or many courses. Applications for admission should be filed, if possible, by June 17.

The University of California is now second among [illegible] in the number of undergraduates, and sixth in total enrollment. It is growing in numbers more rapidly than any other American university. During the past year the enrollment increased 12½ per cent; during the past eleven years, no less than fivefold. In last year's summer session 423 students were enrolled, more than in any other summer school in the United States save those of Harvard and Cornell.

We can hardly restrain a feeling of envy as we catalogue the attractions and advantages set forth by the fortunate ones at Berkeley, for we realize that this is the sort of work that we should now be advertising for Colorado Springs. But the ever broadening opportunities of our own college will, we trust, bring with them the means for their fullest use, and if Colorado college continues in the same spirit in which it is now going forward the time will come when it will not fear comparison with any institution east or west, either in the means at its disposal or the good that is accomplished with them.

ONLY ONE FLAG.

The territorial legislature of Hawaii has shown good sense and a commendable spirit of Americanism in refusing to adopt a territorial flag.

It was proposed to make the old flag of Hawaii the flag of the territory, but this was voted down on the ground as stated in the dispatches that it was not customary for territories of the United States to have a distinctive flag of their own.

In the earlier days of the republic the use of state flags was quite common and in some of the states it continued up to the close of the war of the rebellion. But through the north and west the use of a state flag is almost unknown and there are very few people who even know whether the state they live in has a distinctive flag or not.

It is well that this should be the case, for in everything that the flag represents we are Americans and not citizens of a particular state. The advantages of national unity are so great and the division of our country upon any line would be such an immeasurable calamity that the flag becomes not only the emblem of our patriotism and our national pride, but also to a most conspicuous degree of our national self-interest, which consists in the development of a single people in a territory of continental proportions, with outlying dependencies and defenses as may be necessary, a self-interest that is independent of state lines or sectional divisions and that is as wide and as far-reaching as the land over which the flag of our nation waves.

The new street railway company is acting promptly in carrying into effect the provisions of the ordinance approved at the last election. The tracks to be built through the streets are only a part of the necessary preparations. Car houses and car barns must be built, expensive machinery installed, cars ordered long in advance and brought from the east and other arrangements made. The new company appears to be taking hold of these matters in good shape and the public will have the opportunity to profit by the new car lines with as little delay as possible.

The adage that speculators are like a flock of sheep is too true of the Colorado Springs market. Stocks appear to go up or down without any regard to the conditions at the mines and with very little connection with the general business conditions of the country. It is a well known fact, nevertheless, that those who make the most money in the speculative markets do so by buying on the decline and selling on the rise. But it takes nerve to do this and nerve is something that the ordinary "lamb" does not possess.

The increase of production at Leadville is most gratifying to all interested in Colorado mining affairs. This is all the more evident because the increase is largely due to an extension of the productive area. The production has now reached an average of 2,400 tons daily and the prospects for a further increase appear to be excellent.

FROM THE STATE PRESS

Items of Interest for Gazette Readers From All Parts of the State.

The Democrats are flinging the Kilpatrick case down in Denver, and more so with a view to the municipal election than for the municipal election. The Republicans attempted to carry the election through the most corrupt methods, but the independent Democrats and good people generally defeated a scheme to make to the game. Now comes Tommy Patterson, and in all the robes of purity, and declares that the managers of the campaign, Bob Speer and Tom Maloney, men whose characters are [illegible], deserve nothing and deserve failure, he read out of the Democratic party. The latter Tom is not going to lay down without a fight. He replies to Patterson's attack by stating that the senator was the power behind the throne and that the campaign was managed precisely according to his wishes and instructions. The old saw is quite applicable in the present instance. When rogues fall out, honest people get their dues. If Senator Patterson doesn't look well to his laurels he will be deposed as party boss forthwith. The political barometer of Colorado is that it has [illegible] every party in which he belongs.—(Grand Junction Tribune.

Loyalty to your town begins with the first essentials to its success. Don't live in your town and not be for it. Believe in its future, work for it, talk it, patronize the industries represented there, do all you expect others to do, and you will find recompense in the certainty of ultimate reward. The doctrine of reciprocity applies with equal force in municipal and national affairs. Your home merchants have taken up to sustain your city government, to pay some share of your patronage than is the department store man in some distant city whose interest in your welfare may be measured by the dollar mark. There are [illegible] across for goods which can be purchased in your home town at a slightly increased cost. The man who does that sort of thing is short-sighted. The practical, loyal union man asks for unionmade goods, and is ever mindful of the tenets of his faith in extending patronage. If he buys a cigar he carefully scans the box for a blue label. Why should not every citizen look as carefully after the interests of his own town by contributing his support to its local industries.—(Salida Mail.

The state of Kansas believes that the waters of the Arkansas river flowing through our own territory, originating from our own mountains, cannot be diverted by residents of this state for the purpose of irrigation. The Arkansas is not a navigable stream, and is therefore not subject to legislation by congress. Kansas wants us to let the river alone, let it flow through this state undiverted, and so go down through that state so that the farmers there can use the water for irrigation. It is a question of riparian rights that Kansas relies upon. It looks as though there is but little ground that Kansas stands on in this controversy. The suit must be met and fought out, however, and [illegible] on the hearing in the persons of eminent lawyers.—(Golden Globe.

The coming summer is to be the most prosperous time for southwestern Colorado ever experienced. Telluride, Ophir, Durango, Silverton, Lake City and all other mining camps of the San Juan section are to receive attention and the aid of capital as never before in their history. Ouray county, with her magnificent, pasty, her present wealth producers of world renown and the many prospects to be opened up the coming season will stand securely in first place as she has in the past. It is not in a spirit of rivalry that we claim herein as the peerless gamp of the San Juan—it is in the spirit of truth.—(Ouray Herald.

The recent apportionment bill makes a beautiful crazy quilt of the map of Colorado. The people of Larimer county are kicking because they are tied to Boulder county, in order that the populism of Boulder county may neutralize the Republicanism of Larimer county. Likewise the people of Boulder county are objecting to being tied up with Arapahoe county and Kit Carson county, two hundred miles away. Under the new law a Boulder man is liable to represent Larimer county and a man from Burlington, Kit Carson county, may represent the people of Boulder. This is another great exhibition of home rule.—(Greeley Sun.

It is a matter of regret that the bills asked for by the stockmen should have been assassinated in the house of their supposed friends. In most cases the present legislators were loyally supported by the farming and stock interests and in many instances they could not have hoped for election without the loyal support of the rural element, and yet once safely landed in the state house, these $7.50 legislators turned a deaf ear to the entreaties of the very people to whom they owe their jobs. Another example of the uncertainties of fusion politics.—(Glenwood Post.

The Short Line management is to be congratulated on the care they are exercising with reference to accidents. Snow and landslides are to be expected on a new mountain road that has just been opened but under the skillful management of Mr. Midgway we note that there has been no loss of life. This is encouraging and worthy of congratulations. Let the new road prosper.—(Victor Times.

It makes a fellow living in the balmy spring climate of the western slope feel like getting up and kicking something over to have read in the Denver and Colorado Springs papers "Fierce blizzard rages over the entire state." Why, we haven't had a blizzard in Glenwood Springs for a hundred years and no snow for a month. The eastern slope is not the whole state.—(Glenwood Avalanche.

May 20 is the date now set for President McKinley to visit Colorado. Colorado will look her prettiest at that time and if we don't make a mash on Mack, it will be our own fault.—(Littleton Independent.

Representative Rawalt is entitled to great credit from his constituents in putting through the legislature his bill to establish a state normal school at Gunnison. Although the appropriation made is small, yet it gives a start to the institution.—(Marble Times.

The friends of Funston need not be worried over the harsh criticisms of their hero. It is a tribute which the great man must always pay to the selfish and carping. The man who does not provoke criticism is not good for much as a rule.—(Aspen Times.

The trans-Missouri roads generally are meeting the reduced rates inaugurated by the Chicago and Rock Island, and wonderfully low rates between eastern points and Colorado are certain to prevail throughout the season. This will be a welcome boon to many who will take advantage of the situation to escape the enervating sweltering heat of the east and visit Colorado for recreating purposes during the heated term. Colorado, too, will be correspondingly benefited in that it will form many new and desirable acquaintances.—(Telluride Journal.

There, April showers are a fine thing for the stock range. The moisture has all gone into the ground and will give the grass such a start as it has not had for years in a long time. Spring is late in Colorado, but that is because of these storms.—(Fort Collins Courier.

The Colorado Springs daily newspapers are on a par with Denver dailies in almost every feature. It is surprising the advancement made by Colorado spring newspapers in the past two years.—(Trinidad Chieftain.

Minnesota has now a law prohibiting marriages between those of unsound mind—and who ever saw a trace of real earnest sport among those who had as much sense as a locker. Minnesota must be a dull place.—(Denver Times.

Presidential Visits.

The visit of the chief executive of the nation to every state in the union should be made compulsory by statute. With the railway as a means of rapid transportation there is no reason why the president of the United States should not make a visit to every state in the union every four years.

The idea is not a new one. It is being agitated very seriously by a number of papers throughout the union. The idea is that he should visit the south the first year, the west the second, the middle states the third, and the eastern or Atlantic seaboard states during the fourth year of his term.

This would enable him to see the entire country, to understand the people and express. If it would not matter how smart and able a man he might be, this would broaden his mind, and would enable him to cope with questions he could not otherwise, and it would place him in a position where he would comprehend the wants, the desires, the ambitions of every section of the country.

The people, at the same time, would feel that they knew the chief executive of the country, and would feel a personal interest in the welfare of the government that is not at the present time exhibited.

The business of the country could be carried on just the same. It will be carried on by President McKinley. On the train there will be a corps of telegraphers and stenographers, who will handle the business of the nation just as though each member of the cabinet were in Washington instead of in a [illegible] car, crossing the country at a mile-a-minute gait. This trip should be a precedent that should be followed in the future, and the visit of the president once to each state during his term should be made compulsory by law.—(Cripple Creek Times-Citizen.

Pueblo State Fair.

An excellent board of directors for the Pueblo State Fair association was chosen yesterday, composed of men who have shown their business abilities and executive capacity. An excellent beginning has been made, and the community should now give those gentlemen every encouragement in the enterprise of extensive annual entertainments which will demonstrate the progress of Colorado.

A fair is capable of all sorts of uses in the way of both advertising and entertainment. There is no limit to its possibilities and opportunities. It can be made a means of exhibiting not merely agricultural products but those of the mines and factories, the household and the art schools, the railroads and the orchards. It is impossible to find a city more peculiarly adapted to the gathering and the exhibition of a thousand varieties of articles of use and convenience, produced by mountain and plain, hill and valley, than Pueblo. One dozen separate and independent resources go to build up the wealth and happiness of southern Colorado people. These resources supply materials for an exhibition that can be made simply wonderful. If the people engaged in the several lines of industry will bring them to the front in that abundance of quantity, excellence of quality and beauty of design which are easily possible.

Let us "pitch in" and remember that the gentlemen who compose this board of directors can not, unaided, prepare a great fair. This is everybody's enterprise and each resident should constitute himself a committee of one to aid in pushing the enterprise to a grand success.—(Pueblo Chieftain.

Great is Colorado.

New oil fields are being explored in Archuleta county and adjoining territory in New Mexico. Here, as in other parts of the state, oil exudes from the ground and also comes to the surface in springs of water. This is but one more section of the state added to the fields where indications of petroleum have been discovered. Taking it altogether, the theory that Colorado is underlaid with an immense body of oil does not appear entirely unreasonable. Besides the developed fields of Florence, oil indications are known to exist in Pueblo and Custer counties, in the South park in Arapahoe, in different parts of the San Luis valley, in Routt and Rio Blanco counties and lately Boulder and Archuleta counties claim springs showing petroleum.

In the light of all these indications, it is not an unreasonable position to venture that Colorado may become the leading oil as well as the leading gold producing state in the union. With the proper encouragement the oil industry will become an important factor in Colorado's commercial life.—(Florence Tribune.

OPEN PARLIAMENT.

A Menace to Safety.

To the editor of the Gazette:

Dear Sir:—Apropos the proposition for a miniature steam railway to run in Cheyenne Canon, it occurs to me that a most important consideration against it would be the great probability of horses taking fright at the train. A runaway in a narrow canon, where, under the best circumstances very careful driving is necessary, would be appalling. The almost certainty of such a catastrophe happening would deter many from enjoying what is now a fascinating drive. The sleepy burro, and the toy train would eventually have a monopoly of the canon.

G. B. Price.

And They Do It.

"What we need do," cried L. holly, "is to take money out of politics." "I took out all I saw, sir!" protested the legislator, with convincing candor.—(Detroit Journal.

To the Very End.

An old lady, being told that a certain lawyer was lying at the point of death, exclaimed: "My gracious! Won't even death stop that man's lying?"—(Tit-Bits.

Clean Coal.

Coal is black—there's no getting away from that; but what we mean by clean coal is that it's free from unnecessary dirt, slate and stone; that it burns practically to clean ash; that it gives but little or no smoke, and that sulphurous fumes are just about eliminated—which, briefly put, indicates that our coal is a fine coal for fuel and cooking.

Burney Charged With Assault to Kill

William Burney, the colored janitor of the Midland block, is in the city with a charge of assault with intent to kill against him on the police records. Burney struck his wife a violent blow across the forehead with a club in the North park about 8 o'clock last night and was arrested by Officer Shear, the city ball at the request of his wife. Burney will be given a hearing in justice court today and probably be bound over to the district court, as the evidence is very strong against him.

The woman, who is commonly called "Dicey," has been married but a few months and all was seemingly about his place of business until his wife ran away from him about two weeks ago. "Dicey" gave it out that she had stolen all his money and the police searched in vain for some trace of her. In vain, too, did he inquire of her friends. All he knew was that she had an aunt in Minneapolis, Minn., and a week ago he went to that city and persuaded her to return with him. She says that she has lived in constant fear of him ever since her return, and his action last night seems to indicate that her fears were not without foundation.

Regarding her story, it seems that some time ago she had been talking to "Dicey" and said that he showed weakness in going after a woman who had left him. This talk, and some whisky, made him in a very unpleasant mood and he showed it while sitting on a bench in the North park yesterday afternoon. He began by quarrelling with his wife and calling her names. She made no reply except to ask him if he isn't ashamed to do that way with many people about. This angered him and he struck her over the right eye with a heavy cane he carried, breaking the cane in two pieces and rendering her unconscious. After striking his wife, "Dicey" attempted to take her to their rooms in the Midland block. A small boy picked up the cane and it is now in the hands of the police. "Dicey" succeeded in dragging his wife as far as the corner of Pike's Peak and Nevada avenues, when she broke from his grasp and ran across the street to the police station. "Dicey" had hurried her but did not come to until they had reached the corner. Thomas was mounting his horse when Mrs. Burney ran up to him and asked for protection from her husband. He took the couple in charge and brought them into police headquarters, followed by a large crowd of the curious.

At police headquarters "Dicey" tried to take his wife home, and apparently took no notice of the fact that he had committed a grave offense in striking his wife, with malice in his heart. He kissed her and coaxed her, but she refused. "I'm afraid of him," she said. Captain Fair then had "Dicey" searched and locked up. He did not want to go to jail and seemed to think that there was no charge on which he could be held. He demanded his liberty but Captain Fair informed "Dicey" that he was not running the police department.

By this time the crowd filled the room and Mrs. Burney, "Dicey's" wife, was almost prostrated. The captain took her into the chief's office where she was seen by a representative of the Gazette. She told the story of the trouble with her husband from the beginning and laughed more than once at the humorous side of it.

"I did not steal any money from 'Dicey,'" she said. "He gave me $30 and that's all I had. I ran away because I was afraid of him and he has threatened to kill me time and again."

"When 'Dicey' came after me in Minneapolis I could not help coming home with him because I loved him so much. Last night he began talking about killing people and said that he believed I would be the cause of his going to the pen yet. I laughed it off, but after we had gone to bed I hid his razor. He has said he would kill me and I know he will and I am afraid of him. We had some words in the park and he struck me. He promised me that if we could not get along together he would let me go back to my aunt, and now he wants to kill me." Then the humorous side of the matter came to her mind and she laughingly said: "I must have been a pretty sight running down the street."

"Dicey" had very little to say. He denied having struck the blow but the park was full of people at the time and a number of witnesses have already been secured.

Mrs. Burney will swear out a warrant against her husband today and will appear against him at his trial.

Car of Ore Ran Down Heavy Grade

Ever since the car loaded with ice ran on the Rock Island from Roswell to Rio Grande depot last year has there been an event as the one which took place yesterday on the Midland. The ice collided with a train in waver, but the latter did not cause any serious damage.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon a box loaded with ore was standing in front of the depot on the Midland tracks in Colorado City. For no apparent cause the chains on the car snapped and the wheels began to turn. Before it was known that the car was free it had gained headway enough to make it chase necessary, and it was realized in a moment that unless something ditched the car it would run to the yards in Colorado Springs.

There was nothing to cause the car to leave the rails and as a result it made the descent of the line to this city at a rate faster than the law contemplates. It sped in the Santa Fe yards, where the engine that followed it over took charge of it and returned it to Colorado City.

HARRY CORSON CLARKE.

Harry Corson Clarke, the comedian, will be seen here at the Opera house Thursday evening, in "What Did Jones Do?" is not only one of the certified comics in the world, but a veritable wonder, who has baffled all of the most learned physicians in the United States and Europe. It is more than one year since this remarkable comedian has tasted solid food or taken into his stomach a swallow of water. After having spent hundreds of dollars with physicians and for months of agony, about 18 months ago Mr. Clarke created a sensation by inserting in one of the most prominent New York newspapers an advertisement offering to pay a reward of $500 to anyone who would suggest a remedy to cure him of dyspepsia. He immediately deluged with replies, and tried many of them, meanwhile growing more and wasting away to a skeleton. Finally a council of the leading physicians of the east was held, and after a thorough discussion of his case they pronounced him incurable. But Mr. Clarke is of a sunny disposition, and refuses to be put down by a fatal verdict from such distinguished authorities. He, too, had been thinking and making observations and had formed a plan of treatment. He began on it and grew more confident as time went on, and he felt improvement under it. He finally embraced it boldly and the secret of his progress under it today he is without a physical ailment and shows a gain of over 40 pounds in weight.

NOW THEY WERE GONE.—A woman came into police headquarters late last night and said that three boys had been following her and that she wanted the police to do something about it. Captain Fair asked the names of the boys and the woman did not know them. She could not give their ages, how they were dressed or whether they were light or dark and the captain sent her back to her home to get a description of them.

GLEE CLUB SINGS HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

One of the principal events of this week will be the fourth annual concert of the Colorado College Glee and Mandolin clubs. It will take place in the Opera house next Friday night and promises to be the crowning musical and society event of the last days of the Opera house season.

Leading society ladies of the city, whose names will be announced later, will act as patronesses and all society will attend. From a musical standpoint the concert will be of rank with the best ever given here and for keen enjoyment the programme is exceptionally well arranged. The clubs are far superior to any which have represented the college in previous years. During the trip both clubs developed remarkably and those who heard them two weeks ago will be surprised at Friday's concert.

FIREMEN HAD A SATURDAY SPREAD

The dance committee of the volunteer fireman's ball gave the fire boys at central station a spread Saturday night consisting of limberger cheese sandwiches, dill pickles and coffee. The lunch was spread upon the firemen's reading table and the boys told anecdotes and stories during the course of the feast. After everything in sight which was eatable had been devoured the firemen proceeded to initiate several new firemen into the order of "Tim Toolen." The initiation is performed with a paddle and about five candidates took the first degree amidst the laughter of the old firemen who enjoyed the fun immensely.

DENVER TOOK THE SECOND GAME

Millionaires Lost Yesterday's Exhibition in the Fifth.

LACK OF DISCIPLINE SHOWN

Players Became Involved in an Altercation Resulting from the Play—Umpiring Feature was Unsatisfactory.

Before an audience of 3,000 people the Colorado Springs "Millionaires" went down before Packard's men in Denver yesterday. The game was a poor exhibition and was badly marred by trouble between the players in the fifth inning. It is not believed, however, that the incident will result in any permanent bad feeling between the two teams.

The score at the close of the game was 9 to 2 in favor of the Denver team.

The Springs team lost the game by errors in the fifth inning at critical moments. There was an evident lack of control on the part of the Springs pitcher, this being well indicated by the fact that Whitridge gave no less than six bases on balls. Denver, on the contrary, played faster ball than yesterday and succeeded in keeping the hits of the visitors scattered.

Buck Weaver of Denver started in to umpire the game, but was superseded at the opening of the second half of the second inning by Leichnering, who lasted for half an inning. At the beginning of the third inning Smith of Colorado Springs began to umpire balls and strikes when Denver was at the bat, Meredith of Denver watching the runners, and vice versa. At the beginning of the fifth inning Whitridge took his place, Smith going to the box. In the fifth inning, with Denver at the bat and three men on bases, Sullivan started home from third, when he was hit by the ball thrown by Schaffer to Donahue. The ball sailed to the stands and the result was three runs for the home team. Donahue complained and protested on the ground that Sullivan had run too far into the diamond.

A row resulted, in which there were several blows struck, the police finding it necessary at this time to clear the field of people. The whole trouble was due to the failure of the captains of the teams to keep their men off the diamond and in their places.

The score in the game was as follows:

STATE MINING NEWS.

SAN JUAN COUNTY.

The Elizabeth Mining company operating the Silver Lake Elizabeth properties in Poughkeepsie gulch, are prosecuting vigorous development. Eight carloads of ore are awaiting shipment.

The Three Brothers property, about twelve miles north of Silverton, will also be worked this summer. It is now being sampled and shipped some good returns.

Work on the lower Excelsior tunnel, on Clement creek, is to be pushed to completion or until the lead is cut. A 10-foot shaft has been sunk on a vein of heavy galena and carbonates and the proportions are showing above par.

A new body of high grade ore has been opened in the main drift of the Mayflower, on the southeast side of Sultan mountain, assay 1000 ounces of ounces gold and 27 ounces silver, —Ouray Plaindealer.

ASPEN DISTRICT.

Some good ore has recently been opened in the Argentum-Juniata, better known as the A. J. and heavy shipments of high grade ore are expected.

On Richmond hill B. Slack Wheeler is doing considerable work and expects to open up a bonanza that will excel the palmy day production of the little Annie property. Above time in the early 90's there was but one better known mine in Pitkin county than the little Annie and that was the world famous Mollie Gibson.

Some prospecting is going on to prove up the copper veins at Snow Mass and shipments are being sent out at irregular intervals from the Bunn property. This ore comes to the Boston Gold-Copper smelter. The prospects for opening some big copper producers in the section are good.—Leadville Miner.

LEADVILLE.

A very strong company has been organized to work well located ground of recognized merit upon the Printer Boy hill. The claims embraced in the group are the Printer Boy, Columbia, Miners' Hope, and Bradshaw. This territory yielded $1,250,000 in the early boom days of California gulch. Of the twenty acres in the combination less than two have ever been developed.

Work will be commenced about May 1, by the company on the 700-foot lower Printer Boy shaft which will be cut out, enlarged and timbered and immediately sunk to a greater depth upon the ore zone which at 400 feet in this shaft was quite productive. The proposition has very thrifty neighbors, the Lillian upon one side and the Moyer on the other. Fifty thousand dollars are available for the enterprise. Mr. J. M. Childs of this city is the founder of the company.—(Herald-Democrat.

Manager Terry Connors of the Kimberley-Connors lease on the Butcher Boy and Black Hawk lodes and the Fitz Gold Mining company's property on East Ibald mountain, is drifting from the 200-foot level of the new shaft to cut the contact. He is now in about 40 feet and expects to reach the contact in a short distance further as the limestone is showing signs of mineralization. This rock is very hard and progress is slow. There is some good iron ore outcropping on the Fitz Gold Mining company's property which dips in under the ground in the Kimberley-Connors combination and when developed it should open into a pay mine. The successful termination of this enterprise will bring a large amount of territory into the protection belt of the district.—Dispatch.

A circular letter has been issued by the Valentine Mining company, calling attention to the fact that on Sunday, April 7, several persons and other persons broke at No. 1 raise, drilling in the drawpoint on the property. After stating the conditions as met with in the east and west drifts where contact was met with the circular says:

"With the above condition before us the financial status of the company is such that it will not warrant our going to work to prosecute again unless additional funds can be raised to carry on development work after the bottom shall have been reached. To do this safely the directors deem it advisable to assess the shareholders twenty and they therefore now offer 200,000 shares of stock to the shareholders at 10 cents a share.

It is pointed out that there is apparently a connection between the Pennsylvania and Valentine shafts, for the water in the Pennsylvania began to weaken as the Valentine began to lower its water in February, and since the recent drowning of the Valentine the water has disappeared in the Pennsylvania. It is announced that the annual meeting of the Valentine company will be held on Saturday, May 18, for the purpose of electing directors. The stock transfer books will be closed on May 1, and remain closed until May 21.

The Leadville Gold Basin Mining company, with a capitalization of $500,000 has been organized to operate in this county by the following well-known mining operators: John F. Walsh, Ed. J. McCarty, James Nimon, James E. Mulligan, Clarence W. Rogers, Pat H. O'Brien, and Michael Ahern. The company was founded by John F. Walsh, and will operate the twenty acres of valuable territory belonging to the Big Four Gold Copper company under a three years' lease. Mr. Walsh is quite conversant with the occurrence in this particular section, having had a wide experience in searching for and extracting ore in that locality upon the Little Johnny, Fanny Rawlings, and Big Four. All of these properties he operated to a good profit. A new 200 foot shaft has been located and will be immediately pushed down to ore on the north end of this ground. The continuity of the rich ore shoots so productive in the New Monarch and Fanny Rawlings gives both data and a valuable lesson which practically assures success for this undertaking.

The Buena Vista smelter has secured a lease on the Mahala dump and has started shipments from there, the operations being in charge of Charles Stead, who is the smelter's local agent. A large portion of the dump consists of a low grade iron and copper sulphide, which can be moved to a profit, being loaded direct into the railway cars in Graham park.—(Herald-Democrat.

TURRET DISTRICT.

Since the recent strikes in Turret, mining men have been much more active in making investigations throughout this entire section of the state and it has been discovered that this gold belt extends from this point to Leadville, and is perhaps of much greater length. Near Buena Vista similar ore to that of the Turret district has been found and a new life is apparent in that section.

There is talk of starting up the old Wild Horse mine and if done it will

Mr. J. J. McCarty of 1 South Cascade street, foreman of the Gazette, says: "For years my kidneys were accompanied with attacks of backache, accompanied by other urinary trouble. I took more than one medicine said to be a sure cure for kidney complaints and like a great many others in Colorado Springs I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Jones & Wallingford's drug store, expecting the results from their treatment to be as unsatisfactory as those from other preparations I had taken in the past. BEAUMONT OIL FIELDS

Phenomenal Production of the Gushers Already Brought In.

CENTER OF THE UNIVERSE

All Eyes Turned Toward Scene of Discoveries---Money Flows Like Oil.

(Special Correspondence.)

Beaumont, Tex., April 20.—Feeling certain that every citizen of the state of Colorado is watching with special interest the developments in the Beaumont field, I have condensed a few figures from government reports and the Manufacturer's Record which I believe you will be pleased to print.

The first three gushers brought in, based upon one-third the capacity, usually accorded them, produce as much oil as thirty-seven thousand wells in the east. The daily capacity of these three gushers is six times the capacity of the wells in California, twice as much as the Pennsylvania wells and one-half of the entire production of the United States, and now that there are five gushers and more constantly coming, some idea of the immensity of this great addition to the wealth of Texas can be realized.

The fuel production of the world was about 875,000 barrels daily the day before the discovery at Beaumont. In the opinion of many experts the world's production will be increased 100 per cent before the close of the present month.

This oil field is only beginning to be recognized as a matter of world-wide importance and I mean that this recognition has come during the last ten days.

Two weeks ago Galveston began to wake up to the situation. Houston and other Texas cities appeared indifferent with the probable exception of Corsicana and Fort Worth, and the interest in these two cities was limited to a very few. New Orleans began to appreciate the tremendous importance of this great development only within the last six or seven days, but her awakening came with a bound just as it has come in all sections of the United States. Here, in Jefferson county, is an added wealth to the state of Texas and the United States greater than the total capitalization of the steel trust, with its $1,100,000,000 capitalization.

I do not care to discuss the relations of the Standard Oil company, or any other company, in connection with the disposition of this product, but it appears to me that when it is understood that no other oil district in the world, except Russia (which largely consumes her own product) is situated so near deep water, as is the Beaumont field, that there will be no serious trouble in getting rid of the product, no matter how enormous it may be. Several pipe line companies and certainly the steamship companies of every country in the world will bid for the business of carrying this great steam producing power to every port in the commercial world.

No man who cares for the development of Texas will put a stone in the way of capital coming here, to give Texas and the south the full benefit of what will come to us through the advantage of cheap fuel. As a steam producer, fuel oil has no rival, and that thousands of plants now burning wood or coal will be changed to burn oil is a certainty.

Cheap fuel is the basis of successful manufacture and the fuel oil from the Beaumont fields will furnish three times the power at the same cost that has heretofore been secured from wood and coal. The man who would continue to burn anything else than oil under such conditions announces himself a failure in advance.

Enough in this serious vein. Beaumont is today the center of the universe and is being mentioned more frequently through the papers than New York, Chicago or any of the other great cities. It presents a field for investment and speculation compared to which the great booms of Kansas City, Wichita, Buffalo, Denver and Los Angeles fade into insignificance, while the Leadville and Cripple Creek mining excitements do not begin to compare with what is taking place here every day.

The most unsophisticated tenderfoot you could find in a day's journey knows just as much about the situation here as the best posted oil expert, oil financier or well driller the world has produced, for the lines of this field are as yet undefined, and will not be until a large number of dry wells have broken the hearts of their owners.

It is delightfully refreshing to at least temporarily feel the millionaire sensation which seems to come to every man and woman who has a dollar invested in the Beaumont field, whether it be as the owner of the land, a lease, or oil stock. There are more prominent Texans in Beaumont today than you would meet at a Democratic state convention; or, as it was nicely put by a member of the governor's staff to me today, "Beaumont is a convention center and all Texans are delegates to welcome other delegates from all sections of America and Europe." The tone of the place fairly makes you feel that he does you a favor when he shakes you. I heard one gentleman ask a tonsorial artist why he didn't charge a quarter, and he naively replied, "It's no use, everybody pays a quarter anyhow." Waiters at the hotels and restaurants receive handsome tips, for time is too valuable here and deals too numerous to lose priceless moments at meals. The saloons, and by the way, there are not many, are doing a good business, but I have yet to see the first drunken man since the Beaumont situation got down to its present status. There is no intoxication in whisky or champagne that begins to compare with the sensation you get from mingling through crowds of speculators and investors who have made Beaumont, today the most delightfully interesting town upon the American continent.

Millions have been accumulated here and thousands have been put into the pockets of hundreds of people, and while I would not predict the future, I feel the situation is tame to what it will be a month from now, and at the same time my opinion is worth no more than that of any other man. Go back to the figures in the first of this article, the fuel supply of the world doubled already, with the probability in the near future that coal, as a steam producer, will be relegated to that section of the theater of action in which we Texans usually place the negroes.

I do not wish to go into personalities, but there must be in every great event, no matter what its character, names that will live when others are forgotten. The world knows Captain Lucas, and no matter who put up the money or how it was accomplished, his name will for all time will be associated with this great discovery and everyone, whether resident or visitor, seems delighted to give him full credit.

The other is D. R. Beatty who got the news about midnight the day of the oil strike through a special telegram to the Galveston News, and with only $20 in his pocket took the train out of Galveston at 1:40 a. m. for Houston and making connections with the Southern Pacific there ate an early breakfast in Beaumont. The day was an extremely unpleasant one. This, however, was to Beatty's advantage, and the most remarkable deal in the entire situation is the fact that he held the lease on which the famous Beatty gusher now stands, the largest well in the world, for a ten dollar note, his other ten dollars going to pay railroad fare and hotel bills, and this well has since been sold in connection with some other properties for $1,350,000.

Of course Beatty secured other leases and had money in the bank at Galveston but that money was not available. He has no idea what he will be worth when this great proposition gets down to a business basis, but that he is a rich man is assured, and he is working just as hard today as he was when he went out in the rain to get that first lease.

There are hundreds of newspaper men here, the great newspapers all have at least two men on the ground and some more than that. One comes in the capacity of a correspondent, while the other hustles for the counting room, and there is no nicer lot of men on the ground than the newspaper contingent, and I am glad to know they are securing good results for the publications they represent.

The plunger is here from all points of the compass, with those from Cripple Creek and other mining districts in the majority. The men who take a flyer in cotton, as well as those who deal in grain, are here. The oil men from California, West Virginia and Pennsylvania are here in large numbers, while the real estate man and the agreeable gentleman with the "special advertising" scheme are here in large numbers and they are doing business.

This Beaumont entertainment is not "a ghost dance" or a spectacular performance—it is the real thing and deals amounting to millions have been closed here with spot cash.

Every day adds not only to the interest, but to the solidity of this great movement and every man here is convinced that it is substantial and that the top is a long way off. The prices which seemed two weeks ago as phenomenally high do not equal prices in either California or Pennsylvania, while experts say that the highest priced oil acreage in the world is in Russia. Every train brings more people and in the crowds from the cities of Texas and other cities are many close fisted, hard hearted, penny pinching rich men, who seem to take pleasure in bearing the reputation that they never give up a dollar for any public or patriotic purpose and are never caught by a boom. This class of men are putting thousands, in fact, millions into the Beaumont field. They do not believe this a boom, in fact it is difficult to find any one who considers it unreliable. But never mind about opinions—Beaumont is on the map as a great investment center and the scenes enacted here will go down into history as one of the important eras in the development of this country. No man expects that the high tension will be kept up, but there are thousands who believe that values will continue to advance until the time when a few companies with almost unlimited capital will decide just exactly what part the product of the Beaumont oil wells will play in the future transportation, commercial and industrial development of the United States.

For coughs and colds there is no medicine so effective as Ballard's Horehound Syrup. It is the ideal remedy. Price, 25 cents and 50 cents. The Hefley Arcularius Drug Co., 21 S. Tejon st.

ABNORMAL DESTRUCTIVENESS

Phrenologist—Your bump of destructiveness is very large. Are you a soldier or a politician?
Subject—Neither. I am a first mate.

In the conservatory nook
With lovely Constance tete-a-tete
I told her we first had met
I loved her—left to her my fate

She scarcely seemed to hear (I think
I motion made in vexed fashion)
When as if consciousness had grown
She said in answer to my plaint

"Tell me again you love me true,
Above all others think me fair,
Have never loved another do
Not lie thereto even swear

I spake with in courage to tone
She was the one beyond compare—
She in my arms my only own
My benediction after prayer

A shock was her reply—sharp sting
After you first spoke I confess
Nell Gwynne near us—horrid thing—
I hope that now she's satisfied.

—C. S. Pearson

A rise of five feet more will flood half of the business section including hotels. A rise of ten feet is expected. Relief committees have been organized.

Portsmouth, O., April 21.—At 10 o'clock the river passed fifty feet here and was rising 4½ inches an hour. A seven mean bridge is weakening. Buffalo, N. Y., April 21.—The deluge of rain that followed in the wake of the big snow storm yesterday continued throughout last night and today, leaving but little ground. Reports from points along the southern shore of Lake Erie say that the damage to fruit trees will be great. Telegraphic communication is being slowly reestablished.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 21.—Rain continued to fall all day through eastern Tennessee. The rivers are out of bounds, but along the smaller ones the greatest fear has passed. The Tennessee river at this point is 15 feet and rising rapidly.

THRILLING INCIDENT.

Brave Boy Saved a Pennsylvania Road Train from Destruction.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 21.—One of the thrilling incidents connected with the floods prevailing in this state was the hairbreadth escape from destruction of a Pennsylvania railroad limited train west bound, near Tyrone today. A boy riding frantically at the side of the track, wildly waving his cap gave the warning to the engineer that saved the train from going full speed into a landslide. Even after the warning the train ran into a large rock, knocking off the cowcatcher of the engine and a Pullman was so badly damaged that it had to be taken out of the train. None of the passengers were hurt.

WONDERFUL SURGERY

St. Louis Surgeon Sews Up a Knife Wound of the Patient's Heart.

St. Louis, April 21.—Dr. H. L. Nagel, president of the city hospital, has performed a most remarkable surgical operation. [illegible] three months ago, in the heart of Philip Gunn, who had been stabbed in a brawl. The point of the knife blade had entered the right ventricle and had pierced the cavity of the heart. The knife entered the heart obliquely and the result was that the opening between the cavity and the pericardium, or covering of the heart, was flap shaped on both sides. The wound acted as a valve, and at each pulsation of the blood through the heart but a small quantity was let through the artificial opening. The task of stitching the wound was very difficult. Dr. Nagel first removed a section of the breast bone, exposing the pericardium. The motion of the heart cannot be repressed, and he was forced to make the stitches while the organ was jumping about. It required three sutures to effectually close the hole. This delicate operation finished, the pericardium was sewed together. The portion of the breast bone removed could not be replaced, and the operation was completed by stitching together the [illegible] the chest.

FRIGHTENED BY ELECTRICITY.

New York, April 21.—Warned by a loud thunder clap, with the wind whistling through her rigging, the Orange Nassau, of the Royal Dutch West India Mail, which arrived here from a South American port, ran into an electrical storm on Saturday that struck terror into the passengers.

With the lightning playing all about her, the ship seemed to be charging a battery of artillery, when, with an unexpectedness equal to the breaking of the gale, the masts and rigging were illuminated in the fall of the gloom by great balls of light, particolored Pt. Elmo's fire.

Already benumbed with fear, the steerage passengers cried aloud in terror at this new visitation and many dropping to their knees, prayed for protection. The sailors, callous to the preceding demonstrations, were more concerned at the latter display, for St. Elmo's fire is thought to be a harbinger of misfortune. It took the best efforts of the officers to restore order.

The disturbance was not wholly unexpected for the sky had become overcast and lowering, and a most severe electrical storm preceded the advent of the strange fire.

SHAMROCK II.

London, April 22.—A Times correspondent describing the launching of Shamrock II. Saturday, says:

"She looks a vessel that will be very easily driven, though her lack of draught will make her a trifle tender, and she will probably do her best in a dark yard to call breeze."

The morning papers print elaborate descriptions of the launching and express good wishes for the success of Sir Thomas Lipton but they do not venture opinions as to the chances of the challenger.

Just Like a Search Light...

The electric headlight, with which all our passenger engines are now being equipped, sends forth a stream of light that can be seen for miles. It is just like a search-light—cuts through the darkness like a knife—makes traveling at 60 miles an hour safer than at 40 miles an hour with the old-style oil headlights.

Both the Chicago Special leaving at 4:00 p. m. and the Vestibuled Flyer leaving at 11:00 p. m. are hauled by engines with electric-lighted headlights.

ABNORMAL DESTRUCTIVENESS

Phrenologist—Your bump of destructiveness is very large. Are you a soldier or a politician?
Subject—Neither. I am a first mate.

In the conservatory nook
With lovely Constance tete-a-tete
I told her we first had met
I loved her—left to her my fate

She scarcely seemed to hear (I think
I motion made in vexed fashion)
When as if consciousness had grown
She said in answer to my plaint

"Tell me again you love me true,
Above all others think me fair,
Have never loved another do
Not lie thereto even swear

I spake with in courage to tone
She was the one beyond compare—
She in my arms my only own
My benediction after prayer

A shock was her reply—sharp sting
After you first spoke I confess
Nell Gwynne near us—horrid thing—
I hope that now she's satisfied.

Explosion of Dynamite Destroyed Shaft House at Rittenhouse Property.

MAY ENTERTAIN PRESIDENT

[illegible]

Cripple Creek Bureau Colorado Springs Gazette.

Cripple Creek, April 21.—The shaft house at the old Rittenhouse property on the south slope of Gold Hill was nearly destroyed by the explosion of a quantity of dynamite early this afternoon. The shaft house was a frame structure and was located about 300 feet from the main shaft of the property. It is supposed that the powder for blasting at a small mine in the shaft house. At noon time two attendants left the powder house with the exception of a few sticks which were left behind. These sticks were left near the stove and the fire ignited them. Without exploding they burned entirely and [illegible]

A box of dynamite caps were the first to explode, but did no serious damage. The explosion, however, and the intense heat set off the entire powder house of dynamite. A terrific explosion followed and the frame shaft house was blown to pieces. The whole affair occupied about twenty minutes time. No one was injured. The shaft is 40 feet one and the other of it is about twenty feet from the shaft house. An investigation will be necessary to fix the cause of the fire, as the accident occurred that there was no fire in the stove where the powder was kept. The property is owned by the Cripple Creek Colorado Mining and Milling company. A Mr. [illegible] president and general manager. The shaft house will at once be rebuilt.

Chairman C. N. Miller of the local executive committee of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial congress, has called a meeting for 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at headquarters. Matters relative to the session of the congress are assuming definite shape, and the various committees are getting quite over the arrangements. Mr. Miller said yesterday that the members of the committee were alone and they will cooperate in entertaining the delegates of congress. The ladies propose to give a grand ball the night of the session.

Cripple Creek may yet have the opportunity of entertaining the presidential party on its way [illegible] trip. Robert Graham of this city is in receipt of a letter from the president in which Mr. McKinley regrets his inability to state definitely whether or not he will be able to visit Cripple Creek while in Colorado. Much influence is being brought to bear and it is possible that the party may come to this city.

About sixty witnesses will leave the district for Denver tomorrow to testify in the case of Lennox and Giddings vs Strong, called for trial in Judge Palmer's division of the district court for Tuesday. There is much interest manifested in the campaign to the outcome of the proceedings.

National hotel arrivals today were: C. H. Boyce and wife, William O'Brien and F. B. Morse of Colorado Springs; J. W. Frankel of New York, R. D. Nively of Denver, J. M. Kilum, Mrs. J. M. Kilum, Willie S. Kilum, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bundy and Dan W. Weyand of Binghamton, N. Y., A. J. Stock of Buffalo, N. Y., and G. W. Whitson of Chicago.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

London, April 21.—With the exception of American securities, which continued to be buoyant, the promised increase of activity on the stock exchange following the budget announcement was mostly unrealized. The effect of the budget was largely discounted by careful operators. The coal and sugar duties had been considered inevitable and brokers are thankful that they are no worse. The only appreciable effect of the announcement of the budget was that some operators sold consols down to 94⅞, which is the lowest price since 1891. This low point brought in a number of buyers and there was consequently some recovery at the close, [illegible] only ⅛. The prospectus of the new loan is expected in a day or two. The price will probably be 97½ with a discount off. Some speculative contracts have already been made at three-quarters premium, whatever the announced price may be.

During the week home rails were down ½ to 2 per cent, but dealings therein were limited. Foreign government bonds were moderately active and there was some buying for continental account of Brazilian bonds. There is a renewed Balmour conversion scheme on foot.

Money during the past week was altogether easier in tone. On account of the large government disbursements, coupled with the gold receipts from the provinces and abroad, the reserve has risen to £22,750,000. The near prospect of the new loan makes brokers cautious about lowering the discount rates. Money rates were lower during the past week by ½ to 2½ per cent at call, and by 2% at notice.

WIND AT CHICAGO.

Caused Accident to Water Tank on the Galbraith Building.

Chicago, April 21.—A high wind that struck Chicago today loosened a huge iron tank from its fastenings on the roof of the Galbraith building, Madison and Franklin streets, causing it to crash through the six floors to the ground, injuring five persons and resulting in damage to the building estimated at $10,000.

The injured:

Richard O'Brien, skull fractured by falling timber; will die. Julia Slotkin, back and shoulders injured. Frank E. Langs, scalp wounds. Saverio Pegaro, bootblack, shoulder dislocated and head severely cut. John F. Willey, scalp wounds.

Why Trade Here?

Because it is the best store of the kind in town. Isn't that a good reason? A good store is a protection to its customers. You patronize the jeweler, the tailor, the physician and the dry goods merchant, whom you trust. Why not deal with the leading book, stationery and art dealers, in whom you may place confidence? It costs you no more, and in the course of the year it will save you considerable in time, in peace of mind, and in dollars and cents. We do not claim to have reached perfection in every department, we are working toward that point. But we are always willing to rectify any mistake. Anything bought here is subject to exchange or return for cash. We ask no questions. That you may have changed your mind is sufficient reason to us. We find it pays to conduct our business on liberal lines to take you into our confidence, that you may place confidence in us. Give us a trial.

LEADVILLE

New Strike by the Empire Gulch Company on Long and Derry Hill.

Leadville Bureau Colorado Springs Gazette.

Leadville, April 21.—The Leadville mineral belt has been enlarged again by the strike made by the Empire Gulch Mining company on Long and Derry hill. This new producer is four miles southeast of Leadville and is the farthest south of any producing mine. The value of this strike is that it goes to prove the theory that the territory lying south of Leadville is mineralized and may produce mines that will rival those in the old parts of the producing belt of a few years ago.

The geological formation in the same in the Empire Gulch shaft as in the other portions of the camp. The ore is found in the lime contact at 350 feet depth and averages six feet in thickness and dips with the contact. At this level a natural cavity was opened 45 feet long and 25 feet high. On the floor of this room is from nine to twelve feet of loose iron ore which will ship as a flux.

No. 2 shaft on this property is down 327 feet and in the contact. New machinery has been ordered and will be installed in the next three weeks. This company has a 10-year lease on 160 acres of ground and is backed by Boston capital, under the management of Howard B. Collins. Regular shipments from No. 1 begin as soon as the roads will permit of hauling.

The old Long and Derry mine is making arrangements to start up again after lying idle for several years. The strike of the Empire Gulch mine has put new activity into this section and a number of people are looking for ground to work. The formation in the same as the Little Jonny and Resurrection and lies in the line of the gold belt to the south of these mines.

The Arnold Leasing and Mining company, operating a lease on a acres on the south slope of Carbonate hill, have their shaft down 225 feet and have [illegible] through the formation to the main contact. The water at this point came in strong and flooded the workings. Pumps have been ordered and work will proceed as soon as the shaft is operated. Good ore was found in the bottom of the shaft. While the pumps are being installed work will be done in the 175-foot level in the Carbonate contact, where a body of lead ore exists.

MARLBOROUGHS MAKE UP.

Paris, April 21.—The duke of Marlborough, after a month in the south of Spain, came to Paris a week ago and stopped at the Hotel Bristol on the Place Vendome. While the duke was in Spain the duchess of Marlborough has been in Paris and for the past three weeks she has been staying at her father's mansion in the Avenue Des Champs Elysees. After the duke returned from Spain he visited his father-in-law, where he saw the duchess. This morning the duchess drove to the Hotel Bristol, where she was joined by the duke and together the Marlboroughs proceeded to London. This would indicate that no discord existed between the duke and duchess of Marlborough that their father had succeeded in smoothing it over.

London, April 21.—The duke and duchess of Marlborough, who left Paris this morning, traveled together and arrived in London tonight. They proceeded to Warwick house.

VANCOUVER BANKERS COMMITTED SUICIDE

Vancouver, Wash., April 21.—Charles Brown and E. L. Canby, president and cashier respectively of the First National bank of Vancouver, which was closed yesterday by the comptroller of the currency, committed suicide last night two miles from this city by shooting themselves with a revolver. Their bodies were found this morning lying together, in a small clump of bushes about one-half mile north of the [illegible] within sight of the outskirts of the town. They both used the same weapon and Canby evidently died first, as the revolver was found in Brown's hand. It is evident that Canby put the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth and then blew the top of his head off. Brown then took it and shot himself in exactly the same way, falling over Canby's body. The fact that Brown's bicycle and an umbrella belonging to Canby were found a short distance out of town last night, led to the belief that the two bank officials had taken their lives. Early this morning a searching party started out, and after several hours hunt the bodies were found in the clump of bushes.

Friday evening Canby, upon being told by Bank Examiner L. W. Maxwell that the bank would not be permitted to open Saturday, went out in the yard behind the bank and attempted to kill himself. His revolver failed to explode, although all five chambers were loaded. After failing to shoot himself Canby came back into the bank and he and President Brown left together, later taking his revolver. When Examiner Maxwell confronted the bank officials with the shortage of $11,000, which he had discovered both men admitted their guilt. It is said that both Brown and Canby had been speculating in stocks. Beside Brown's body there was found a package containing $25, and a note saying that the money belonged to his daughter. Upon Canby's body the following brief note was found:

"My Dear Wife:

"I feel what I am about to do is for the best. Forgive me if you can and try to live for our dear children. God bless you all. Good bye. Ned.

"April 12, 1901."

Brown, who was 56 years of age, has lived in Vancouver since 1862. His father was the first receiver of the Vancouver land office. He had served as auditor of Clark county, was married and had a family. His connection with the bank as its president dated back 10 years.

Canby was 52 years old and was well connected. His wife was Miss Frances Burnside, daughter of an Oregon pioneer. He has a brother, who is a paymaster in the United States army. Another brother committed suicide by jumping off the wharf at Vancouver several years ago.

While Bank Examiner Maxwell, who is now in charge as receiver, has made no official statement, it is known that the bank has loaned a large sum of money on insufficient security. According to his report to the comptroller of the currency there is a shortage of $11,000 in the bank's account and it is understood a considerable portion of this amount was loaned to Brown and Canby on their personal notes. About a year ago the bank reduced its capital stock from $100,000 to $50,000. At that time about [illegible] of the so-called bad assets was "charged off" and has not been carried as an asset since that time.

The heaviest stockholder is Col. Stephen P. Jocyln of the regular army, a member of Gen. Shafter's staff. Col. Joseph is stationed at San Francisco. His post was Vancouver when the bank was organized, in 1889, and ever since that time he has been the heaviest stockholder.

According to the last statement issued in February, the bank's deposits amounting to about $200,000.

From the condition of the bodies and other circumstances it is almost certain that the suicides occurred between 7 and 8 o'clock Friday evening. Two pistol shots, coming from the direction of where the bodies were found, were heard at that hour by L. B. Rand, who lives a [illegible] of a mile distant. Following the arrival of United States District Attorney Wilson R. Gay last night a warrant was issued by Judge Miller of the superior court, charging Brown and Canby with the embezzlement of $10,000 of the funds of the bank on Jan. 15, 1901. The complaint contains four charges of embezzlement and misapplication of the funds of the bank, falsifying the books of the bank and issuing false reports of the bank's condition to the comptroller of the currency. Bank Examiner Maxwell, who has been installed by the comptroller as temporary receiver of the bank, still refuses to give out any statement of the affairs of the bank. Both Brown and Canby when confronted Friday by Maxwell, with false entries in the books made a full confession. Canby remarking: "Well, you have caught me this time, Maxwell; that is a false entry."

Then, picking up a pistol from the counter he remarked, as he held the muzzle towards his head: "This is the only sure way. I see out of the difficulty." Maxwell demonstrated with him against his apparent suicidal intent, when Canby left the room by the rear door. It is believed that while outside he attempted to kill himself, as on returning he threw down the pistol, remarking: "The gun is no good, and will not go off."

In answer to an inquiry from Maxwell, if he was implicated in the criminal entry, Brown replied: "Yes, I am equally guilty."

District Attorney Gay stated today that there is evidence that the criminal acts of the two officials cover a period of several years and only by a thorough investigation of the books can their full extent be known.
